1. Construction of a new electric power station was started at the beginning of 1951 at a point south of Campulung-Moldovenesc, north of Vatra Dornei and about midway between Vatra Dornei and the village of Prisaca Dorna. The construction work was stopped for a time, but began again in late 1951. The power station will utilize the waters of Bistrita River and will supply the town of Campulung and the surrounding area with electricity.
2. Another hydroelectric power plant was under construction in early 1952 south of Comanesti. This plant will utilize the waters of the Valea-Trotus River, and both soldiers and civilians are employed on the project. In the spring of 1952 a new railroad track was constructed and sheds for the machinery and barracks for the workers had been completed. This station is expected to provide power for an area extending 50 kilometers south of Comanesti towards the district of Bacau.
3. A new railroad line was built in the middle of 1951 from Viseu to Baia Mare, near the Hungarian border. Civilians were mobilized to work on the line which was to connect the district of Viseu with the old railroad line running through Baia Mare to Satu Mare, near the Hungarian border.
